Introduction

The purpose of this book is to provide you with useful tips and tools to ensure that you become an educated investor. FXTM has a team of highly-experienced trainers who develop materials for all levels of trader. Whether you are just starting out, or consider yourself an advanced trader, you will find material that will enhance your skills. This book represents a small fraction of our educational suite, which includes seminars, webinars, videos, articles and eBooks. These resources are free to use, to help you sharpen your skills on the way to becoming a successful investor.

Learn to identify the trend

The trend is your friend. We have all heard that phrase so many times, but many traders don't follow the wisdom behind the words.

Well, successful traders do! Their success depends on identifying the trend early on, following it and understanding how to maximize its benefits. This can be daunting for new traders because they are not trained on identifying trends in the early stages of development. Learning how to spot the small signs of a trending financial instrument is a key technique for success which every great trader uses. A trending financial instrument is more likely to continue in the direction of the prevailing trend rather than reversing, so it is a great source of guidance for traders. The center of our teachings at FXTM is the trend, and we provide hands-on training sessions to help you spot it.

Revise your system to boost your potential winning trades

A lot of papers and articles have been written about this vital topic in trading the markets.

Some may argue that less winning trades over losing trades is not a big deal as long as the winnings outweigh the losses. The bottom line, they say, is to have more profits than losses. No problem! What about the trader's psychology, though? How does a trader feel when he or she loses? Not very pleasant, for sure! When emotions take over, a trader's mind goes blurry. A blurry mind is a recipe for unpredictable outcomes such as a lack of discipline. Successful traders know that very well and make sure that their strategy has more winning trades than losing trades. After all, trader's psychology is invaluable in trading the markets successfully. At FXTM our team of experts has plenty of tips to help you boost your potential wins and minimize your losses.

Never try to beat the market

In the early steps of their trading career, novice traders make it their aim to beat the markets.

You have probably heard stories of fellow traders who are determined to take control of the USD, own the EUR or punish that JPY. The truth is that this rarely ends well. To buy at the absolute bottom and exit profitably at the absolute top is of course the goal, however many hours are consumed studying different strategies, indicators and combining tools to do this. The earlier you get out of the “beat the markets” mindset, the faster you will find yourself on the road to success. Let the market follow its course and learn to trade like a professional. At FXTM, our educational seminars and webinars will assist you in achieving your goals and help you keep a level head.
